HOCKEY GLOVE

With the player's forearm bent, measure the distance between the fingertips and the crease at the elbow. The glove's palm should be reasonably thin and pliable. The polyethylene thumb must be protective and flexible. The glove's foam padding must be dense. Gloves should be purchased so that they fit you properly. Gloves should not be so large that they will inhibit your ability to properly feel the stick, yet so small as to jam your fingertips to the end of the gloves.

SHINGUARDS

Shin Guards - Shinguard sizes can be easily be found by measuring from the center of the knee to the top of the skate boot - buy shinguards in this length. Shinguards which are too long will ride up the leg so that the cap is actually several inches above the knee, offering little or no protection at all.*

Shinguards should never be held in place with tight hockey stockings. Always wear heavy elastics, special shinguard straps or tape to hold the pads in place.

HELMETS/ FACEGUARDS

Position the helmet on the head so the rim is finger width above the eyebrow. Gradually begin to downsize the helmet (if necessary) until a comfortable snug fit is achieved. Tighten and secure the helmet adjustment. The helmet must be snug enough to prevent rotation with the adjustment secure and the chin strap securely fastened at all times. An oversized helmet can lead to unnecessary injuries.

Faceguards - With the helmet positioned one finger width above the brow, measure the linear distance between the helmet's edge and the bottom of the chin with the mouth closed. Determine the level of play. The faceguard should fit snugly to the chin. If it is too long, it may come into contact with the nose or mouth during impact. When the player's mouth is closed, the chin should fit comfortably into the chin cup. Attach the faceguard securely to the helmet according to the instructions provided. Internal mouthguards are recommended for use with all hockey faceguards. The use of internal mouthguards greatly reduces the risk of concussions and dental injuries in hockey. The mouthguard should be trimmed and moulded to fit the teeth and gums as per instructions provided. Hockey faceguards must be CSA OR ASTM Standards, and must be approved for use with the helmets to which they are attached. In Canada there is a separate standard for players aged 5 to 10.

SKATES

HOW TO FIT SKATES

Every player has his personal preference that must be considered. However, skates are constructed to meet the foot's requirements, and an improperly fitted skate can result in the premature breakdown of the boot, regardless of skate quality, workmanship and features.

1. Generally, a sewn skate will fit 1 to 1 1/2 sizes down from your regular shoe size. Moulded skates fit basically the same as your regular shoe size. Fitting gauges will only indicate approximate sizing and should not be considered as a true fit. A proper fit is obtained best after trying on a few different sizes and walking around.

2. Sitting down, the skater should put the skate on and immediately kick the heel back into the rear of the boot. The toes should 'feather' the toe cap, and not be crushed or curled in any way.

3. Lace the boot up, continuously kicking the heel back, ensuring that the lacing is being tightened evenly from the bottom to the top. The tightening should be firm, but not so tight that circulation in the foot is hampered. A proper fitting skate does not require extremely tight lacing, only a 'snug' fit.

4. After the boot is completely laced up, get up and walk around. The rear area of the foot should feel snug and secure with no movement or slipping. The foot should rest comfortably on the footbed; looseness in this area will surely result in 'sloppiness.' The toes should extend flat within the toe cap area. If the toes are stretched (pushed ahead), you should be able to 'feather' the toe cap.

NOTE: Custom Supremes will feel exceptionally tight for the initial 5 to 10 minutes, until the Flolite® engulfs the ankle area, allowing the foot to slide back into the boot, releasing tension in the toe area. The boot should be removed completely after the initial wearing, and put back on for final consideration.

5. Fitting children: Room for growth must be allowed, but care must be taken not to fit too large. The most allowance you should make is about 1/2" (or a 'thumb behind the heel' width) when the foot is pushed forward as far as it will go, in the unlaced skate. Remember that fitting skates in May or June (for hockey schools) will be difficult if the skates are expected to last until the end of the upcoming season. The sooner the fitting is to the start of the season, the more accurate you can be with the fit.

DID YOU KNOW ?

- Because skate companies all use their own design of 'lasts,' their skates generally do not have the same sizing as each other.
  - Poorly fitted skates will 'breakdown' prematurely regardless of quality OR materials used in the construction of the skate boot.
  - The leathers and nylons in a stitched skate boot will stretch after use, but if fitted properly will mould around the foot.
  - Almost 80% of all people pronate (flat feet) to some degree.
  - Most people have one foot larger than the other.
  - Children's feet grow an average of 1/3" per year between the ages of four and eleven.
  - Skate sizes are in increments of 1/3".
- Theoretically, a child following the mean growth rate, should need a new skate one-half size bigger every six months.
- Your feet change volume after you get up and walk or exercise. Foot volume is greatest after a hard day on the feet. The worst thing you can do is try on a new pair of skates early in the morning, while sitting down. They will be at their smallest, shortest and narrowest.

CARE OF SKATES

- All feet sweat, and an athletic sock should always be worn while skating to absorb sweat and excess moisture from the foot.
- The proper method of 'breaking-in' a pair of stitched skates, is to dampen and rinse your socks with hot water before you skate the first few times. This hastens the normal sweat process from within the boot. IT IS NOT NECESSARY, OR ADVISABLE TO DUNK YOUR SKATES INTO A BUCKET OF WATER.
- After skating, always loosen laces completely and pull the tongue back. If the sock liner is removable (i.e. Superfeet®) then remove it from the boot and let it dry out. For best drying results let the boot lie on its side. These steps will a) help promote the complete drying of the boot and sock liner, b) enable the foot to go back into the skate comfortable the next time without jamming, thereby ensuring that the tongue is positioned properly around the foot, and c) force the skater to begin lacing from the bottom up, instead of half way up, which causes uneven lace tension.
- Moulded skate liners should always be removed after use.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SKATE SHARPENING

Even after much care has been taken to properly fit the player into a pair of skates, the players' performance can be heavily influenced by how well the skates are sharpened. Bauer has spent a considerable amount of time and effort insuring that the boot and the foot, operates as 'one.' However, the boot still rests on 2" stilts, and if the runner has been sharpened incorrectly, the ultimate performance will be hampered.

There is a lot of controversy surrounding the correct way of sharpening skates, and there are as many different machines as there are sharpeners. However, the basic principles come down to two separate areas of concern: the 'radius' and the 'lie.'

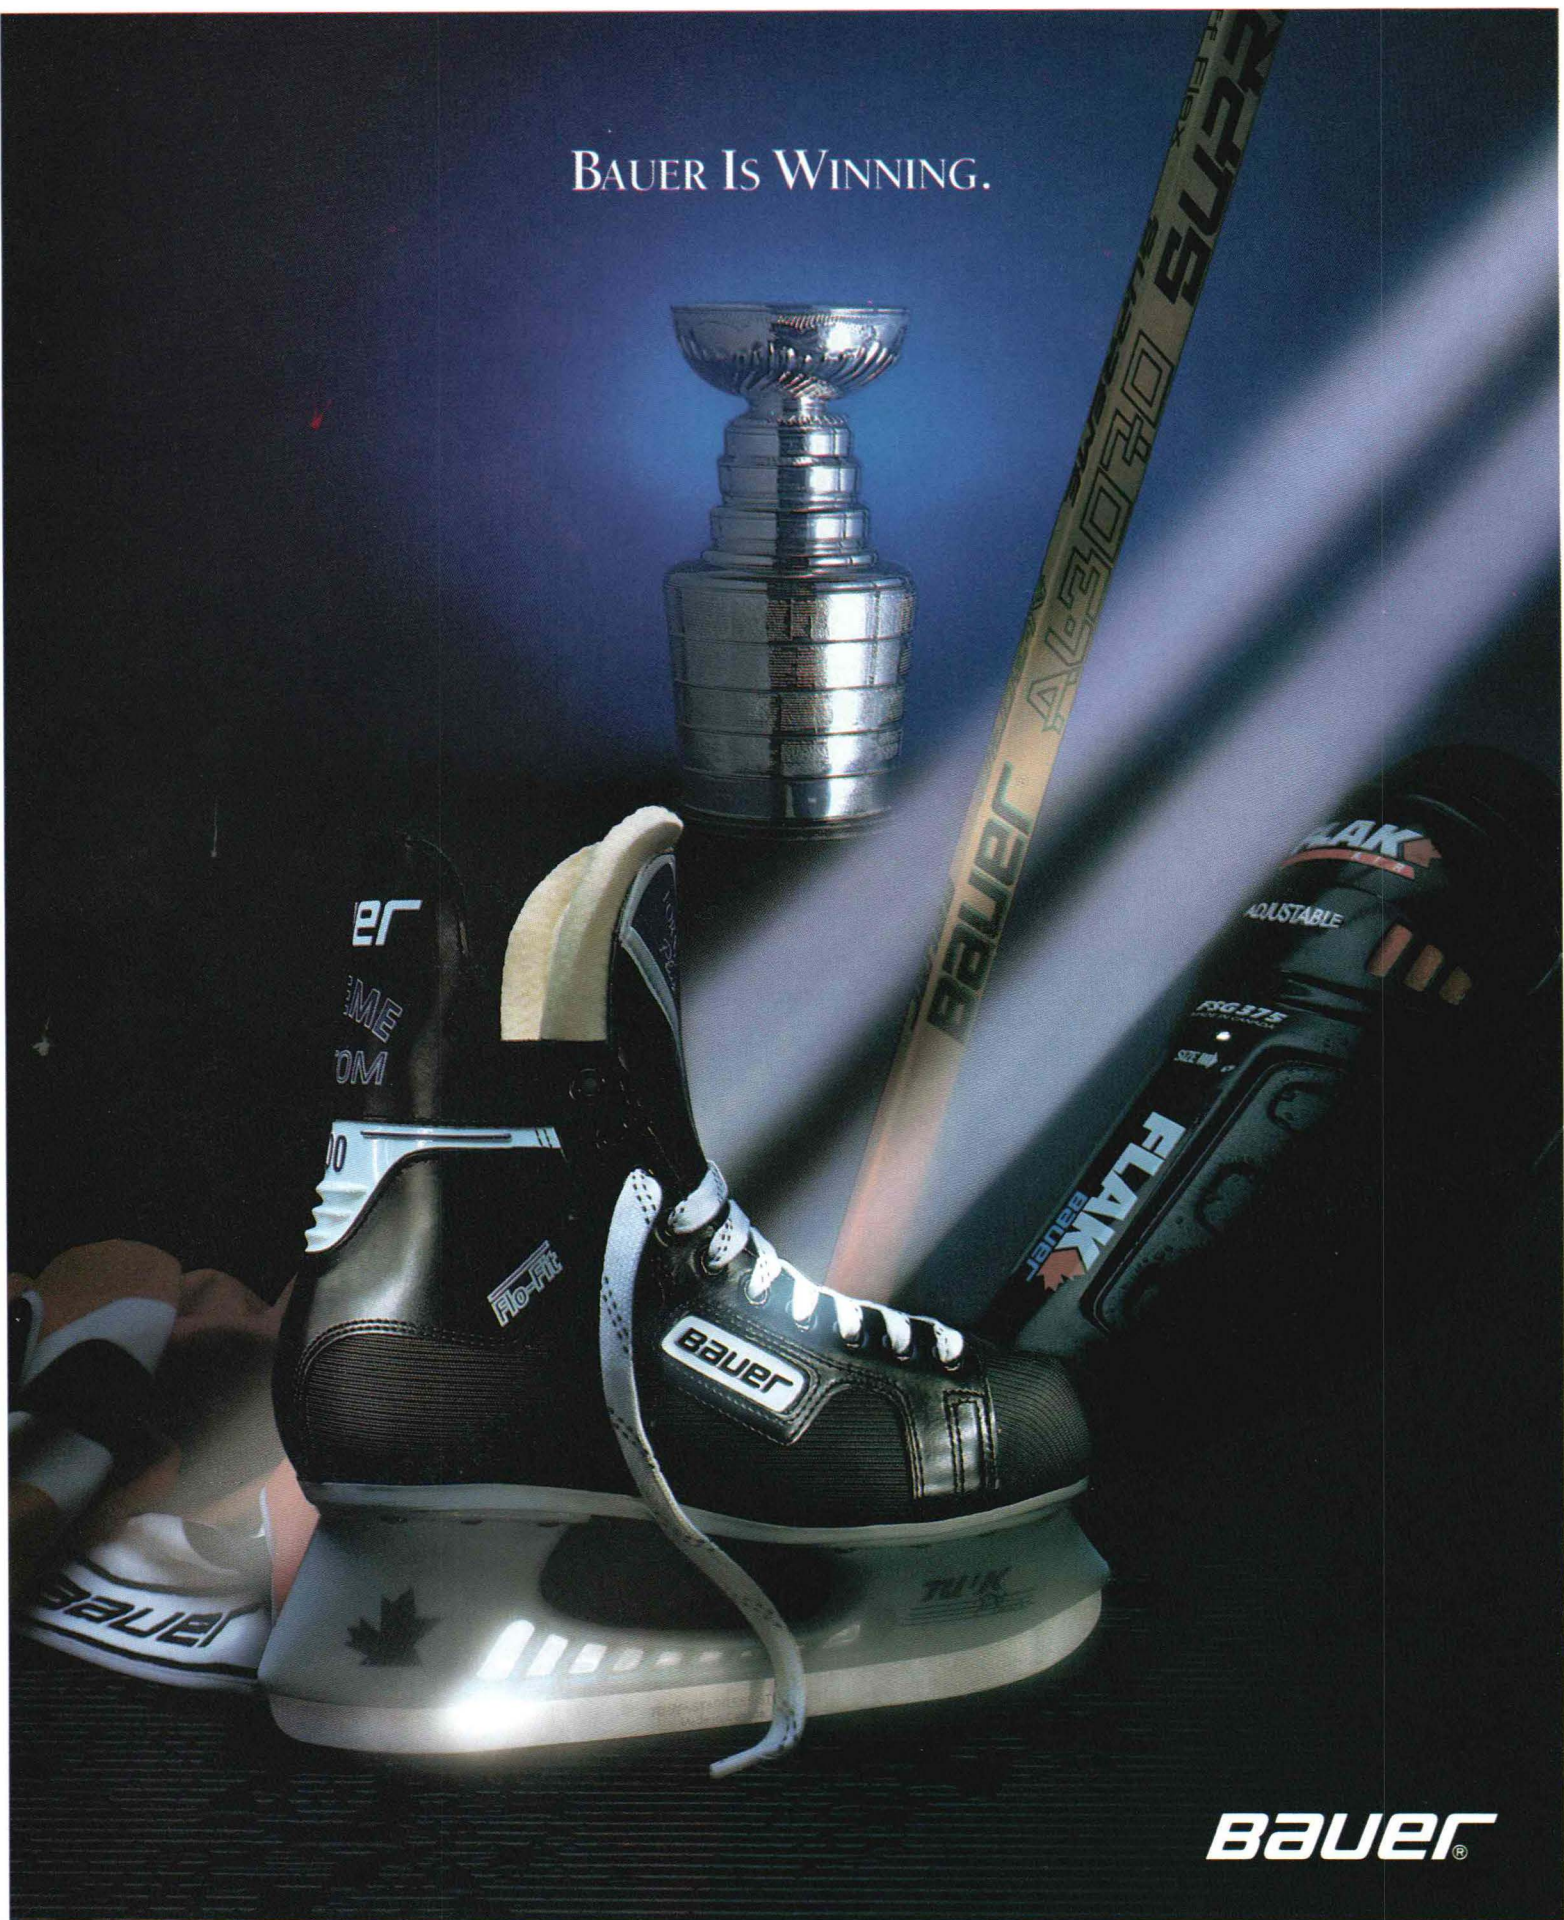

The length of the radius controls the amount of blade touching the ice, and the correct radius is a balance between the maneuverability and efficiency with the skating stride. A long radius, 11-13 feet, will produce a very efficient stride with excellent stability, but there will be a decrease in maneuverability. A shorter radius, 7-9 feet, will provide extreme mobility, and sharp turns, but an extreme loss of power in stride which will result in a player becoming tired quicker. The individual player must choose for himself which radius is best suited to his style.

The lie or pitch of the blade is in fact even more important than radius. The pitch or lie of the blade controls the posture of the skater, and even if the radius is correct, an improper lie can create great difficulty for the skater. A lie can be basically three measures: Negative, which is disastrous, making the player feel like he is always falling backwards; Neutral, which is ideal for the normal skate, figure skater, or defenseman; and Forward, which is an aggressive body posture, tipping the skater forward initiating motion. Once again, the choice of Neutral to 1/2 Forward, to full Forward lie rests with the skater.

When assessing a players' performance, remember that it is necessary to consider more than the particular skate boot, and fit... it could be the sharpening!

BAUER IS WINNING.

THE NEW MEGA AIR 90™

Welcome aboard Mega Air — the most advanced skate technology in the world.

Introducing our "Anatomical Air-Fit" system. It combines a moulded anatomical ankle support with electronically-sealed "Static Air Pouches". They flow around ankle contours, lock the heel in place and provide comfort. We've also embedded "Static Air Pouches" alongside the metatarsal guard to form the "Anatomical Air-Fit" tongue. And that's just for starters.

The newly-engineered exterior "Lateral Ankle Support" offers unprecedented levels of foot stability and support. Of course, there's our trade mark "Medial Power Clip" — more skating energy is transferred directly to the ice — and all this break-through technology gives the added advantage of virtually no break-in period.

Travel by Mega Air. It's time you flew first class.

Only Mega has electronically-sealed polyethylene air pouches packed with high-density fibre. Even if punctured, you get virtually all the support, protection and comfort of Mega Air.

All other skates with air pouches use simple bladders. If punctured — their usefulness vanishes into thin air.
